"The expansive nature of neo-soul and the freedom of jazz is wrapped in a neat pop bow. The band found a winning formula so early into their musical journey." - Glide Magazine, on "Didn't Sleep Tonight"

About us

My Mom Is Here is what happens when jazz kids form a rock band.

Sam Seiff (vocals) and Nick Sare (keys) recruited their Columbia pals Aidan Speckhard (drums), Ryan Daar (bass), and Stephen Park (guitar) to play a rooftop gig with them in 2023.

Ever since, My Mom Is Here has sold out NYC venues like Mercury Lounge, Nublu, and Bowery Electric, garnering praise for their tight musicianship and goofy onstage antics.

The band draws inspiration from classic artists like Fleetwood Mac, The Beatles, Steely Dan, Fiona Apple, and Stevie Wonder, while keeping a finger on the pulse of the NYC neo-soul scene. (Our keyboard player, Nick, is a founding member of Melt the Band.)

2025 is going to be a big year for My Mom Is Here! The band will release singles all spring, tour in the summer, and debut an EP in the fall.
